Manager, Economic Development

Stephanie Aylworth is the Downtown Development Manager for Georgia Municipal Association, a member of the GMA staff support team for the Georgia Cities Foundation, and the Program Manager for the new Georgia Placemaking Collaborative. She has tenure working in municipal downtown and economic and community development. Stephanie began her career in downtown development as the Main Street Manager for the City of Douglasville. Prior to working for GMA, she was the Economic Development Director and co-manager of the Business Liaison Team for the City of Powder Springs. Stephanie served on the Georgia Downtown Association board of director for six years and was president in 2015. She has a Master of Arts in Public History, with an emphasis on downtown development, from the University of West Georgia and is a certified Georgia Downtown Professional. When she is not working, she enjoys touring historic downtowns, riding mountain bikes, hiking, and being outdoors.
